Principal's Corner

A Time for Everything

Like many do, I'm becoming much more nostalgic as I get older. Everywhere, it seems, I am surrounded by little "triggers" that take me back to my childhood or my children's childhood. Either way, I am struck by how time no longer feels like the partitioning of significant events but, rather, the blending of a lifetime of memories. I'm guessing it's a sign of aging. For example, here we are celebrating yet another New Year, 2015, and I cannot help but reflect back to when we were celebrating a new millennium not so long ago. At that time, my family was living in Minnesota, and my oldest child was just 7. My parents were still young grandparents and had joined us to ring in the New Year. Words like graduation, elderly, drivers ed, middle age, were not yet in our vocabulary. Life was by no means carefree, but it was less complicated.

One of my favorite Bible verses is Ecclesiastes 3:1-8. It's very popular, inspiring many, but, unfortunately, is often only read at funerals as a way to gain some perspective on life. Most of us are familiar with the opening statement: For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven. What many of us may not be as familiar with, however, are the words that come after the listing of contrasting images:

God has made everything appropriate to its time, but has put the timeless into their hearts so they cannot find out, from beginning to end, the work which God has done.

I recognized that there is nothing better than to rejoice and to do well during life. (3:11-12)

As I begin another round of resolutions for 2015, my goal is to be intentional and to rejoice – to seek out and appreciate EVERY moment, even the crazy ones, as I continue to build memories. I have finally accepted the fact that as much as I want to, I cannot stop the passing of time, that life isn't all about me and my desires, and that there has been and will continue to be a time for everything for EVERYONE. My job is to strive to find happiness in ALL of it and to give to God those things that obscure my happiness. I hope that 2015 brings your family many occasions to rejoice as well and many opportunities to build memories of happiness and thanksgiving.
